DETAILED ACTION

Claims 31-59 are pending in this application.

Drawings

The drawing(s) filed under 37 CFR 1.184 or 1.152 are acknowledged by the examiner.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on June 29, 2007 was noted and the submission is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the examiner has considered the information disclosure statement.

Restriction/Election of Species

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 31-48 in the reply filed on April 30, 2008 is acknowledged. Examiner also acknowledges the election of silver as the species of choice. Therefore, claims 31-39, 41-44 and 47 will be examined in view of applicants' election. Claims 40, 45, 46 and 48-59 will not be examined as they are directed to a non-elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 31-39, 41-44 and 47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kydd et al. (US 6,153,348) in view of Hack et al. (US 6,264,801).

Applicant claims a paramagnetic nanopowder comprising silver powder having paramagnetism at an absolute temperature of 20K or greater.

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art

(MPEP §2141.01)

Kydd et al. teach in column 7, example 1, a process for preparing coated silver particles. Column 2, line 67 through column 3, line 1 teach that the silver flake has a particle size of 5 microns.

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims

(MPEP §2141.02)

Kydd et al. do not teach the silver particles as being paramagnetic, or being paramagnetic at an absolute temperature of 20K or higher, the external magnetic field value, the positive mass magnetization, coercive force or particle size of less than 3 microns. It is for this that Hack et al is joined.

Hack et al. teach in column 3, lines 13-15 it is taught that silver is a paramagnetic materials.

Finding of prima facie obviousness

Rational and Motivation (MPEP §2142-2143)

As mentioned above, Kydd et al do not teach that silver particles are paramagnetic. This deficiency is solved by the teachings of Hack et al. which disclose that silver is paramagnetic and has magnetic properties.

With respect to the limitation of the absolute temperature, it is the position of the examiner that while the prior art is silent with respect to the limitation, it would have been obvious. 20K is equal to -423.67°F or -253.15°C. It is the position that reading the specification of Kydd et al. it is noted that the preparation of the silver particles is well over 20K and reads on the claimed limitation.

It is the position of the examiner that the physical characteristics of the silver particles, i.e. the external magnetic field value, the positive mass magnetization or coercive force would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. This is further evidenced by In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). "Products of identical chemical composition can not have mutually exclusive properties." A chemical composition and its properties are inseparable. Therefore, if the prior art teaches the identical chemical structure, the properties the applicants discloses and/or claims are necessarily present.

With respect to the particle size being less than 3 microns, this determination would have been made through routine experimentation to achieve the desired results of the claimed invention. This is in the absence of any clear showing of unexpected results attributable to the specific particle size employed by applicant in the instant case.

Conclusion

Claims 31-39, 41-44 and 47 are rejected.
